EDUCATION IS A GROWING PROCESS

Foreword

Education is, in its ideal form, a growing process. The roots of the tree of education grow deep into the soil of culture that man has cultivated for centuries. A young tree grows rapidly, assimilating substance for its growth from the raw material within the reach of its roots. When the tree reaches maturity, it does not cease to develop, but continues to grow in height and breadth, each season adding new foliage to the ever-expanding branches. Similarly, the education of man should not terminate with formal schooling, but continue throughout life to assimilate knowledge, skills and branching interests. Perhaps as you review the 1961 Woodcohi you will be able to say of your experiences:

With them the seed of Wisdom did I sow,
And with my own hand wrought to make it grow;
(Quatrain XXXI, Second Edition,
The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam)

WOODSTOCK
HIGH SCHOOL

The New Addition

Last year a bond issue was passed appropriating funds for a new addition and general remodeling of the high school. A gymnasium and locker rooms, language and science laboratories, many classrooms, and new music rooms are among the facilities that the expansion offered this year.

With the completion of the new addition, the school is capable of serving a capacity of 1200 students.

The Board of Education

The Board of Education is the group which makes the important decisions concerning all major aspects of WCHS life—general school policies, selection of faculty, improvement and maintenance of facilities, and any other important matters that may arise during the school year.

Improving schools is slow, hard work, since changes that make a real difference must occur in people. We have not found a technique that produces rapid results. However, Woodstock Community High School, like hundreds of others, in our nation, can conscientiously report a vastly improved performance, a more serious purpose in learning on the part of more than fifty per cent of her pupils.

To all who would go on with their education, please remember that an attitude of eagerness for learning and a willingness to regard learning as hard work are necessary and not contradictory. Teachers alone cannot produce this attitude; our parents and our society must support and facilitate this necessary mind set.

If America is to handle the difficult decisions of this or any other decade, she must have an electorate, produced by our public schools, who read more and vote not with emotion but with some understanding of our social, economic and political problems. Your generation will soon be the leaders; let us hope you can lead America out of its present softheadedness.

Sincerely yours,

T. C. Shoberg

RICHARD APOLLONI—B.A., M.A., St. Procopius; Notre Dame; Northern Illinois; Harvard University. Latin I, II; English II

WILLIAM A. DEAN—B.S.Ed., Illinois State Normal University. English II; Journalism

JOHN F. DEETHARDT—A.B., Indiana University; University of Innsbruck; University of Vienna; Northwestern University. English III; German I; Theatre

EUGENE MAXWELL—A.B., Greenville College; Beloit College; University of Chicago; Northern Illinois University. English I

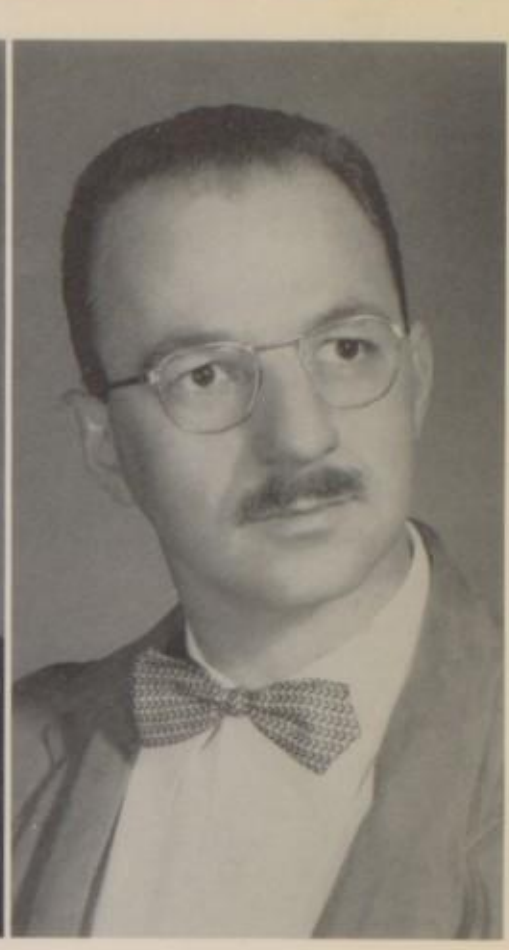
English Department

In order to be able to understand adequately the "whys and wherefores" of the modern world, it is necessary for one to have a substantial background in both spoken and written English.

DOROTHY ROBINSON—B.A., Illinois College. English I

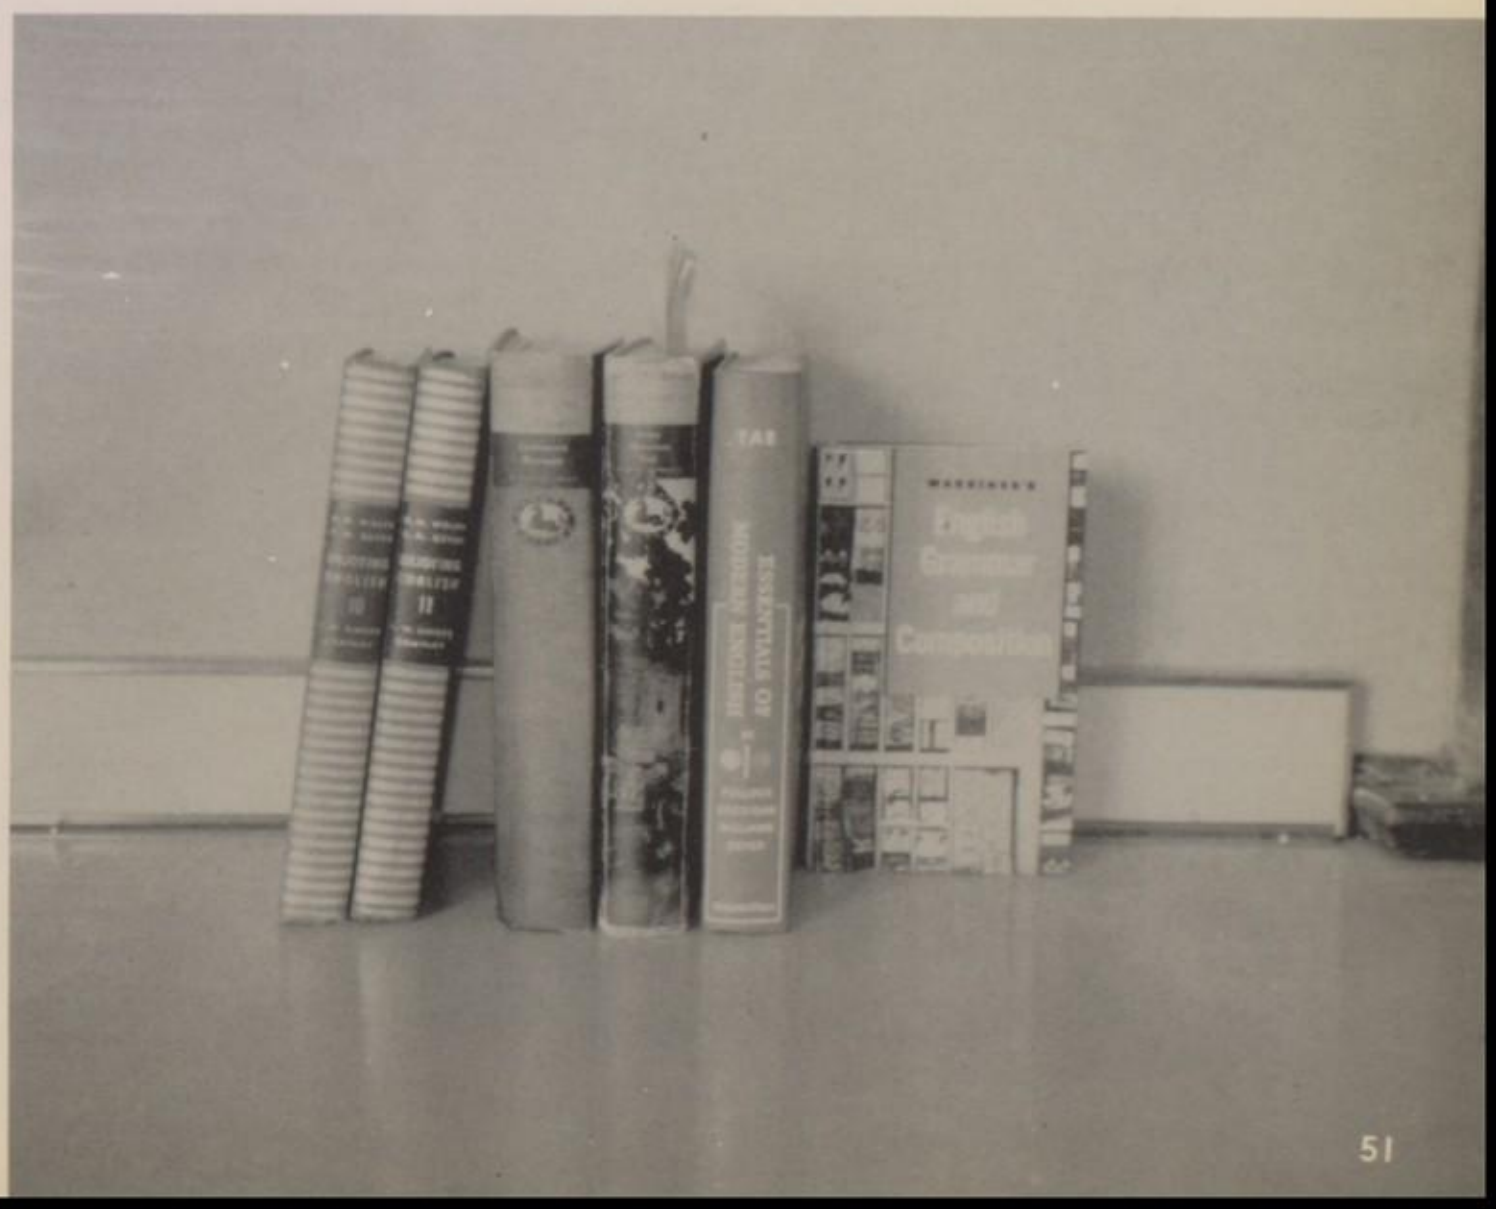
JOANN STEINKE—B.A., M.A., Valparaiso University; Northwestern University. Senior Composition; English III; Spanish I

LYNDON WHARTON—B.S., Eastern Illinois University. English II, English IV



ERWIN ZIPSE—B.S., M.A., Northern Illinois University; University of Rhode Island. English III; English IV

WCHS students benefit from the fact that the English Department offers courses which are graduated according to the students' abilities. In addition to the general English courses, a pupil may elect to study journalism, speech, senior composition, or drama.



MARY VIVIAN WITT—B.A., M.A., University of Wisconsin; Penn State University (also McGill University; University of Colorado, School of Languages, Colorado College; Columbia University. French I, II, III.

DOROTHEA HIMMLER—Northwestern University; University of Illinois. Office Practice; Shorthand; Spanish I, II

Foreign Language Department

Foreign languages open a pathway to better understanding of our global neighbors and thereby help in the fight for better world relations. They often provide a basis for technical reading for future doctors, lawyers, musicians and scientists.

Franca, Espaniola, Deutsch and Latina were the four languages offered this year. Available for the first time were German and a third year of French. In addition, all languages benefited from the new language laboratory.

Students express themselves and hear teachers' comments on their foreign efforts by means of new equipment in the new language laboratory.

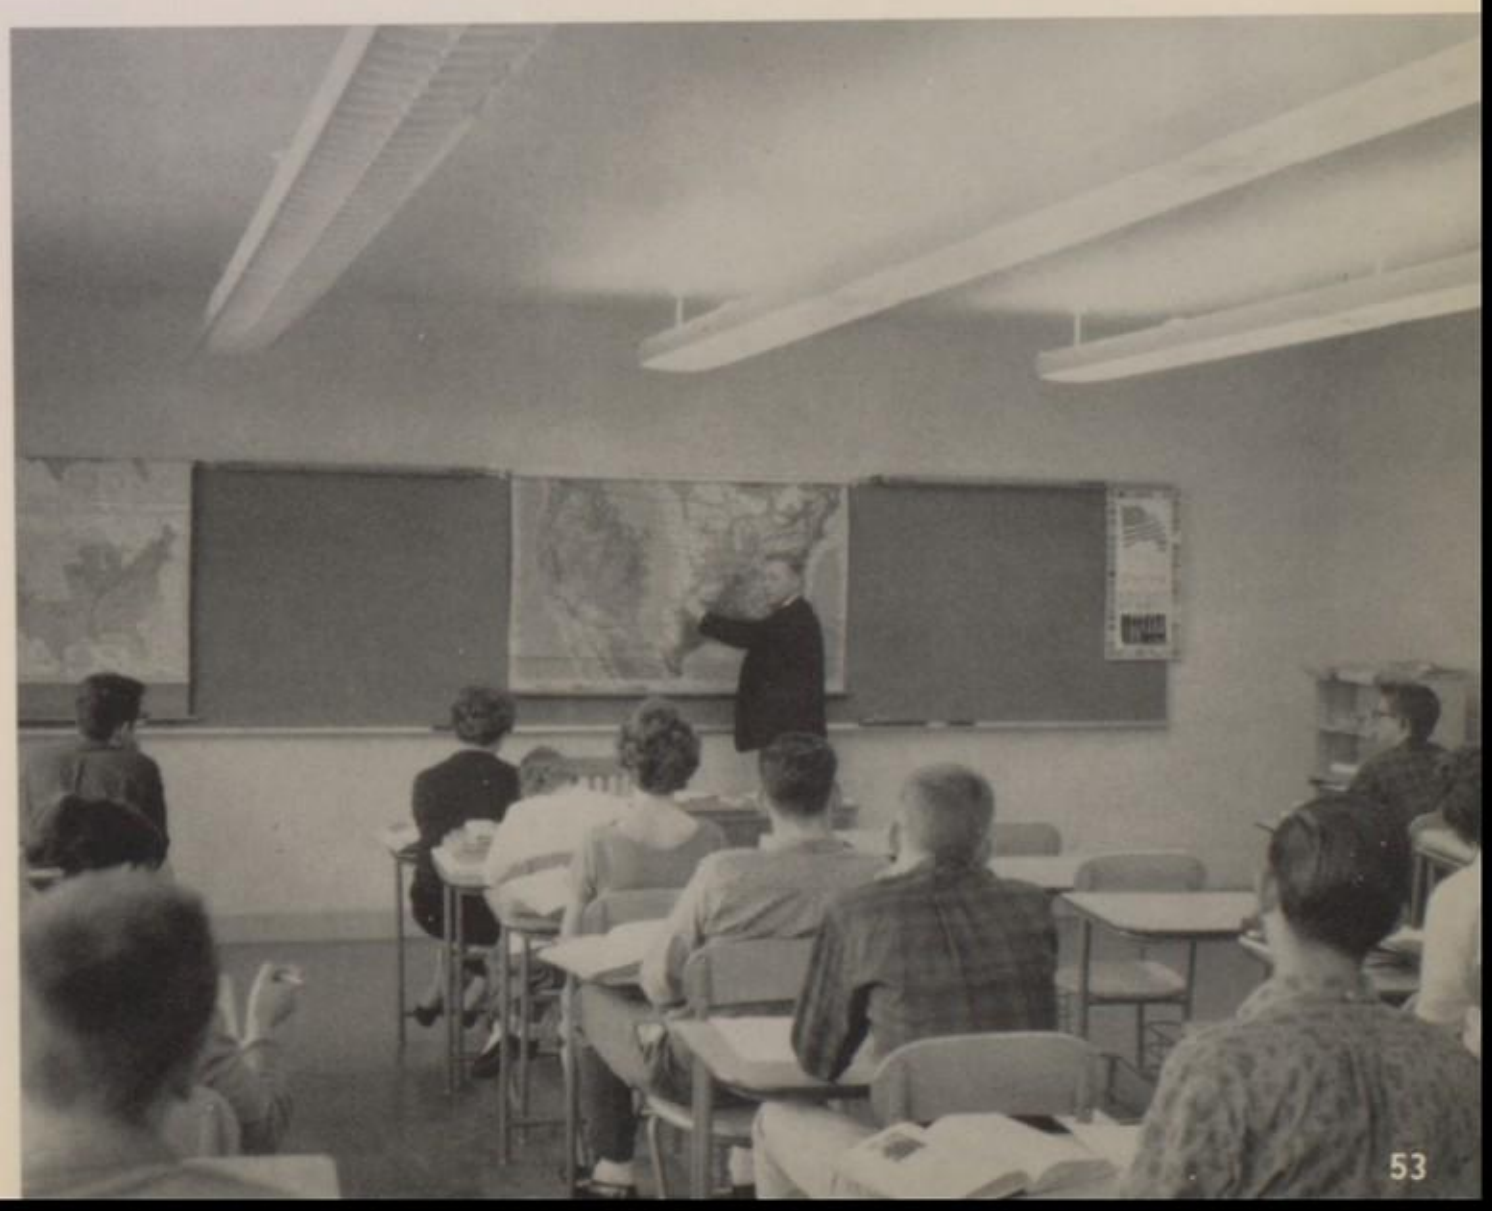
MR. R. NOWASKEY

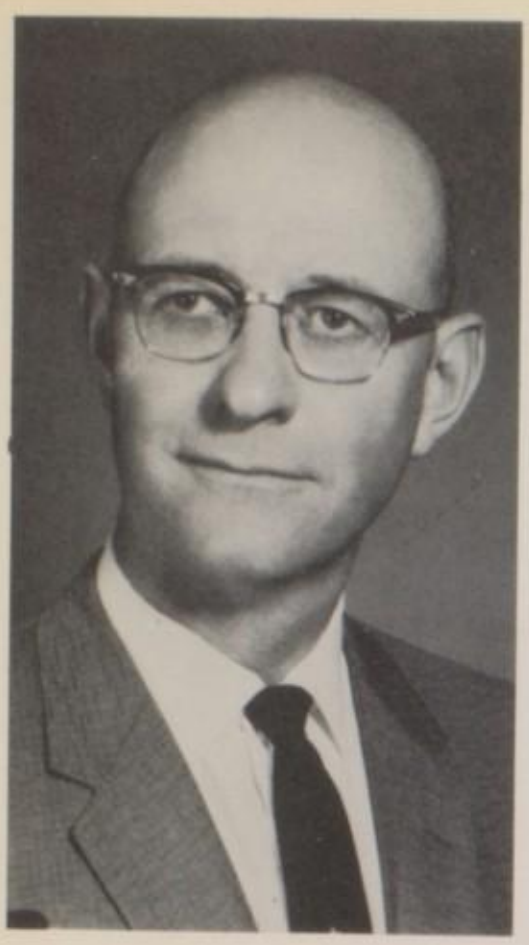
MR. T. OLSON

Social Sciences

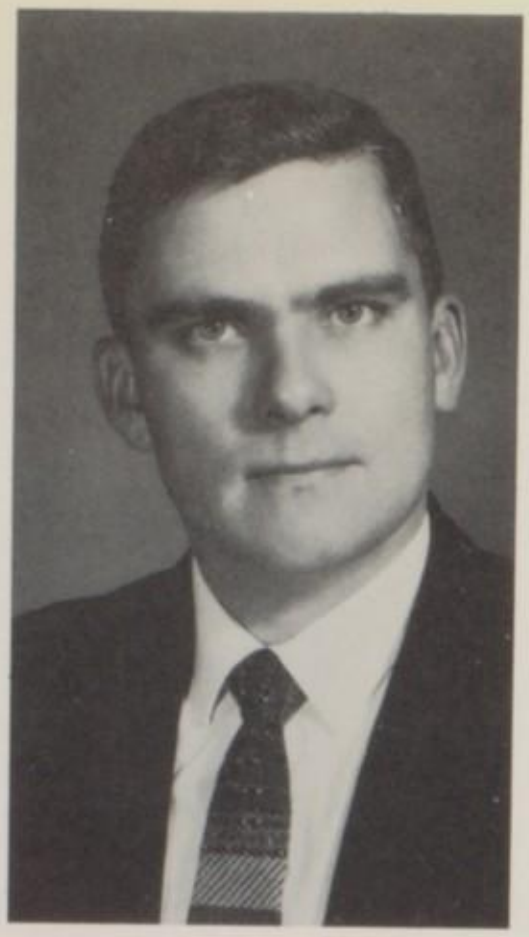
The social science courses—American history, world history, political science, world geography, and sociology—are intended not only to give the student a background of knowledge, but also to enable him to use that knowledge in understanding and interpreting historical and political issues in the world today. Textbook material is supplemented by news publications and occasional films.



Learning of America's past intrigues the Junior Students in Mr. Olson's class.



WALTER MACK—B.A., B.D., Elmhurst College; Greenville College; Bradley University; University of Illinois. Chemistry; General Science



STUART Y. KELLER—B.S., Bowling Green State University; University of Nevada; East Illinois University. Physics; General Math; Algebra

JOHN LITTLE—Northern Illinois University. Earth Science

The Science Department

Today's world is illuminated, heated, cooled, cleaned, and driven by electricity, turned on and off by a switch, and governed by laws of biology, chemistry and physics, just to mention a few—a world to which the password certainly is "science."

The student at WCHS is well provided with that invaluable password to this modern-day world.

GERTRUDE G. SAILER—R.N., P.H.N., University of Minnesota; University of Illinois; Loyola University; University of Colorado; Northern Illinois University. General Science; Physiology

H. B. SWARTOUT—B.S., M.S., Drake University; State Normal University; University of Illinois. Biology I and II

The varied program offered by the science department includes general science, earth science (a new course this year), physiology, biology, advanced biology, chemistry, and physics.

Laboratory facilities included in the new addition proved to be a valuable asset.

LARRY DALE—B.A., Illinois College. Plane Geometry; Algebra I

STUART Y. KELLER—B.S., Bowling Green State University. General Math; Algebra I; Physics

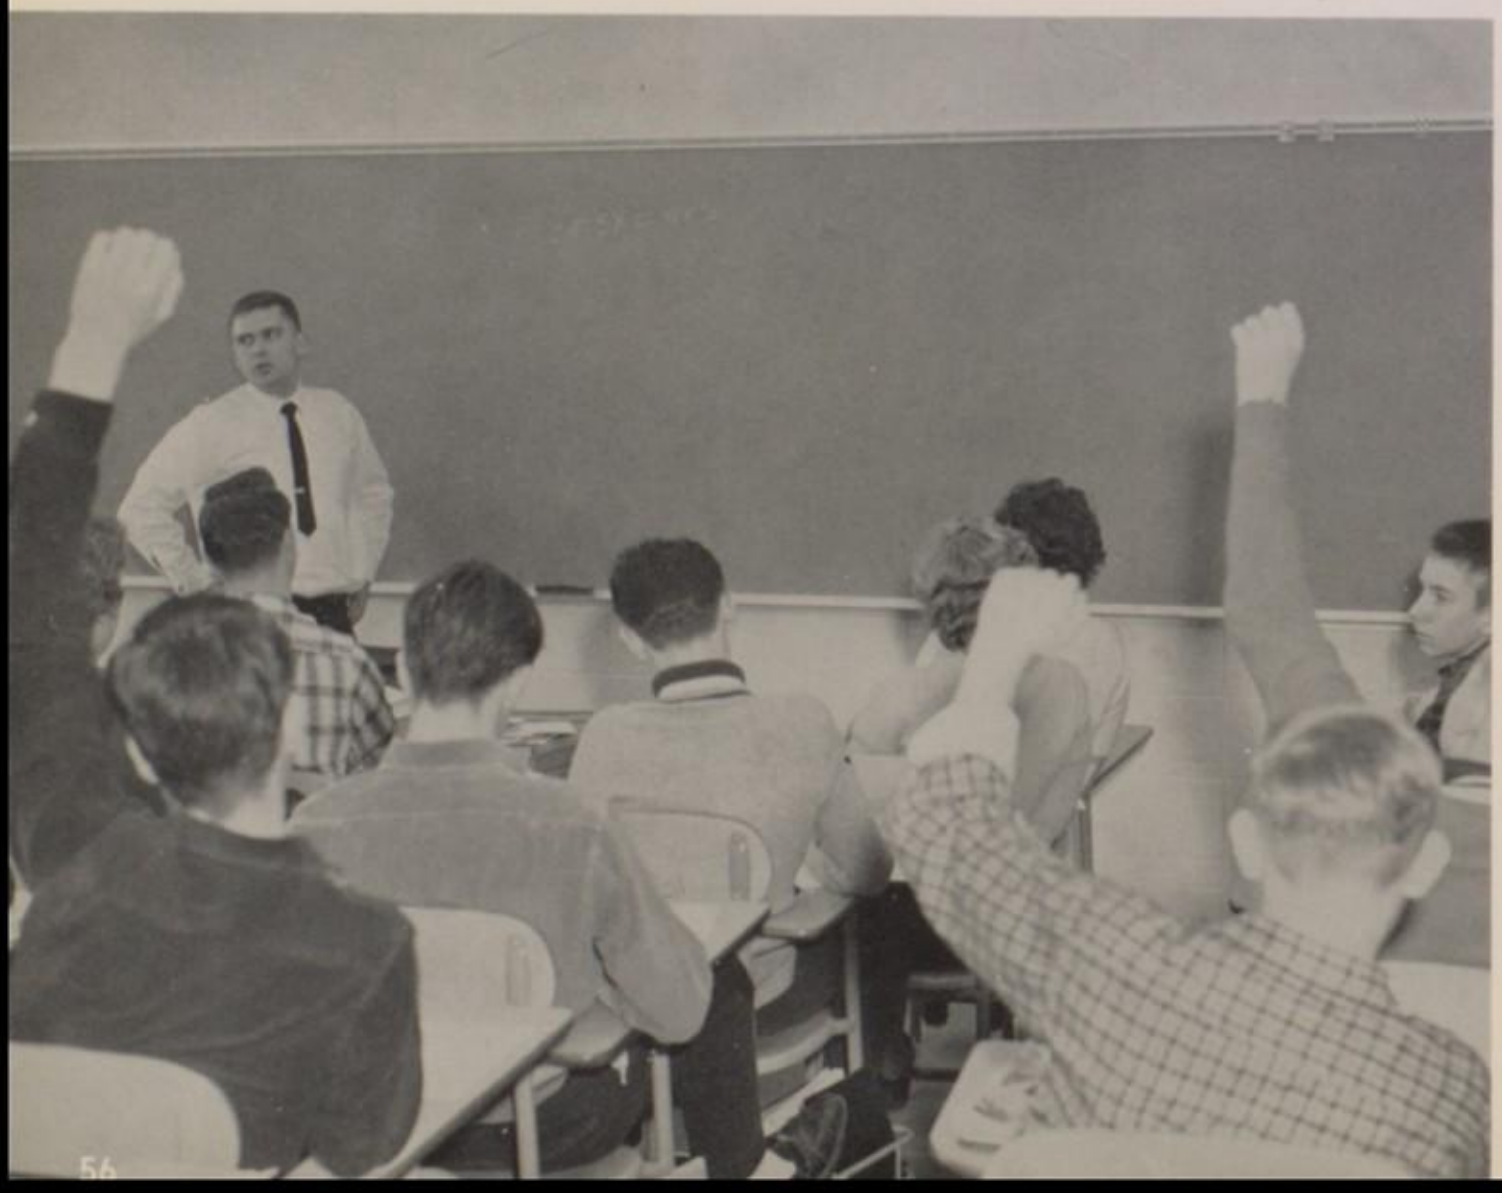
JEAN SCHMIEDESKAMP—B.A., M.A., Carthage College; University of Illinois; Indiana University; University of Wisconsin. Algebra I and II; Solid Geometry; Trigonometry

The Mathematics Department

The field of mathematics prepares pupils for logical thinking, accurate deductions, and skills applicable in industry, engineering, art, and natural science.

General math, simple arithmetic, algebra, plain and solid geometry, advanced algebra, and trigonometry are the courses from which a student may choose.

Each year, several students from this department participate in a statewide math contest.

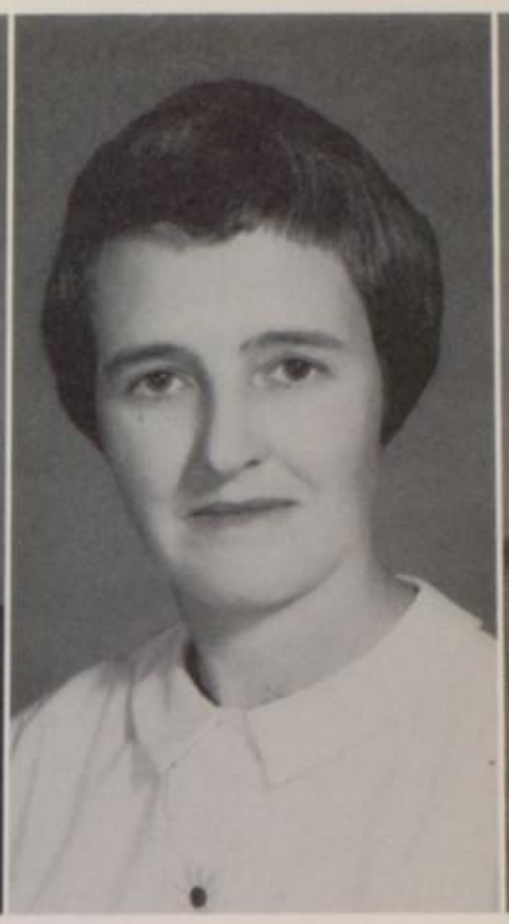


Miss Schmiedeskamp's algebra class is quite busy absorbing the science of accuracy.

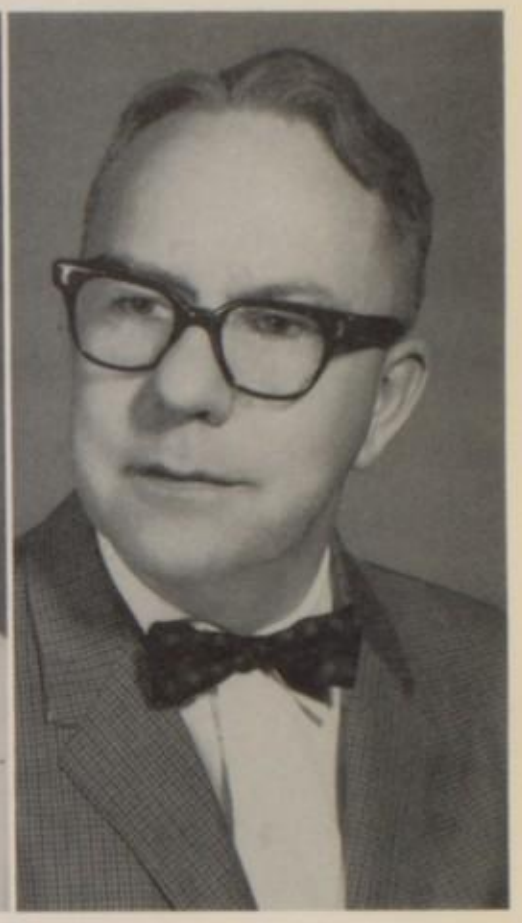
The Business Department

MISS S. M. BEATTY

MR. J. W. BURCH



MISS DOROTHEA HIMMLER



MR. P. R. SCHULTZ

The business department is offered to students who are interested in the "Business World." Future secretaries and office workers may prepare themselves by taking such courses as shorthand, office practice, typing and bookkeeping. A course in business machines was added to the department this year; this course offers instructions in the operation of machines such as the comptometer, calculators, and National Cash Register.

GEORGE W. FORGEY

Farming has become an increasingly specialized endeavor within recent years, and in order to inform prospective farmers of modern methods, WCHS maintains a well-equipped agriculture department. The "ag" courses follow a pattern of alternating quarters of classroom study and shop experience. In addition to studying in the areas of animal husbandry, record keeping, and soil conservation, the boys gain valuable practical experience in various phases of farm maintenance.

GEORGE W. FORGEY—B.S., Agriculture; M.S., Agric.-Education; University of Illinois. Vocational Agriculture 1, 2, 3, 4

ETT J. MURANA, Senior member of American Society of Tool Engineers; Machine Tool Operation; Gears Advisor; Y.M.C.A. College; University of Illinois; Northwestern University

HAROLD R. RAY—B.S., Master Tradesman; Building Trades Club; Industrial Arts Club; Stouy Institute; Eau Claire State Teachers College; Univ. of Wisconsin; Univ. of Illinois; Northwestern University

CLARENCE SPARKS—B.S., M.S.; Drafting; Industrial Arts Club; Berea College; Washington Univ.; Univ. of Chicago; Univ. of Illinois; Illinois Institute of Technology

The Library

MR. J. L. RICHARDS—B.S., University of Illinois

One of the most useful branches of our expanding school is the new library. More space is available to books as well as students. The library is well-lighted, has a soundproof conference room, and two storage or general purpose rooms for past issues of magazines.

Important reference and educational resources often unavailable at the public library are provided by the WCHS library.

GIBSON C. KURTZ—B.S., M.S., Southern Illinois University. Driver Education; Physical Education

O. C. O'HARA—B.E., M.A., Southern Illinois University; Northern Illinois University; University of Illinois. Driver Education

Driver Education

The driver education course is required of all students and is usually taken in the sophomore year. It is designed to make the student aware of the importance of safe driving.

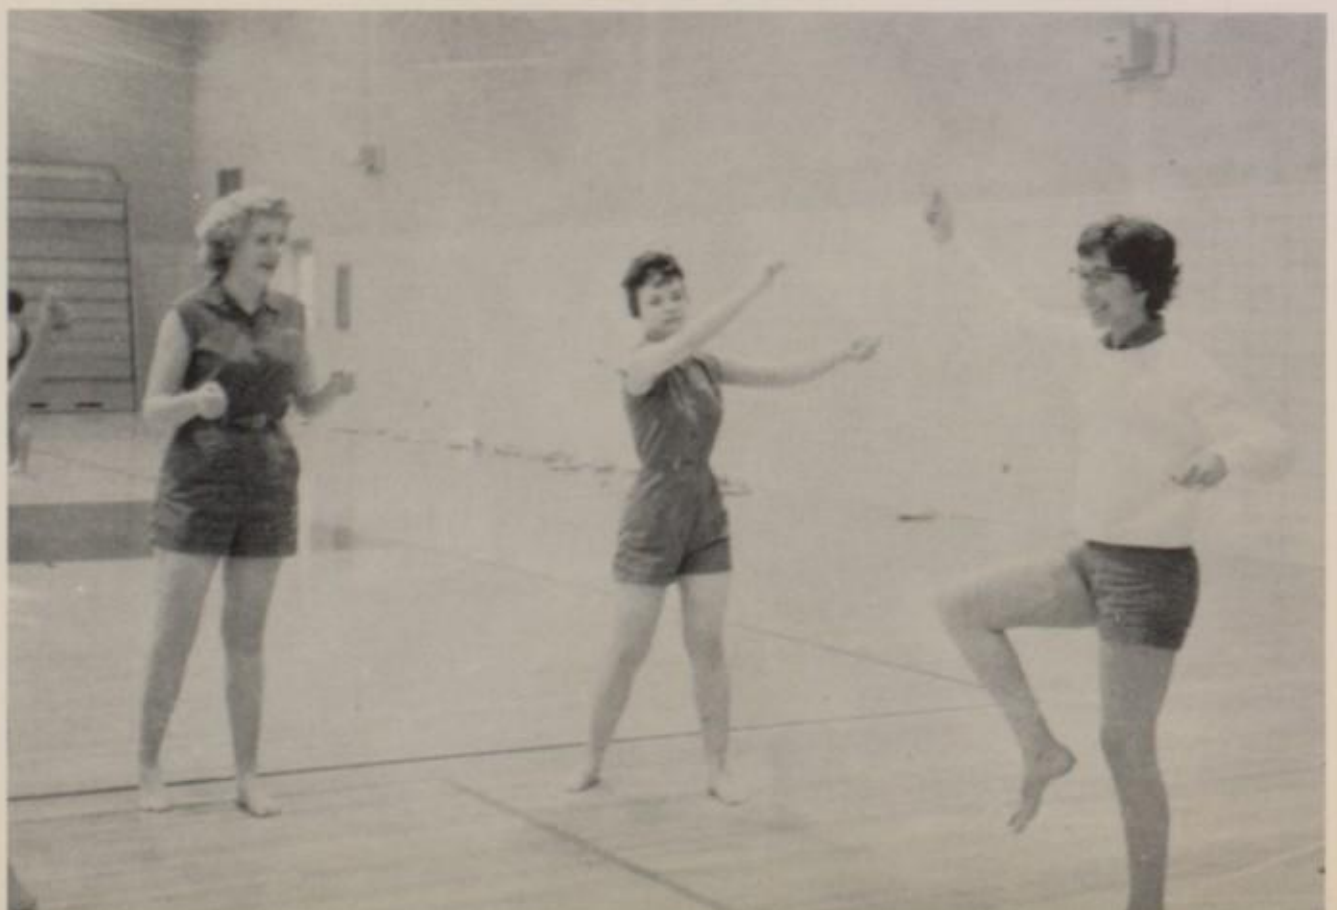
Education in the classroom includes discussion on problems encountered while driving, instruction concerning the various road signs, and general information about the "rules of the road." Behind-the-wheel instruction enables the student to gain supervised driving experience.

MISS PAT ADAMS

MISS NINA WITHERILL

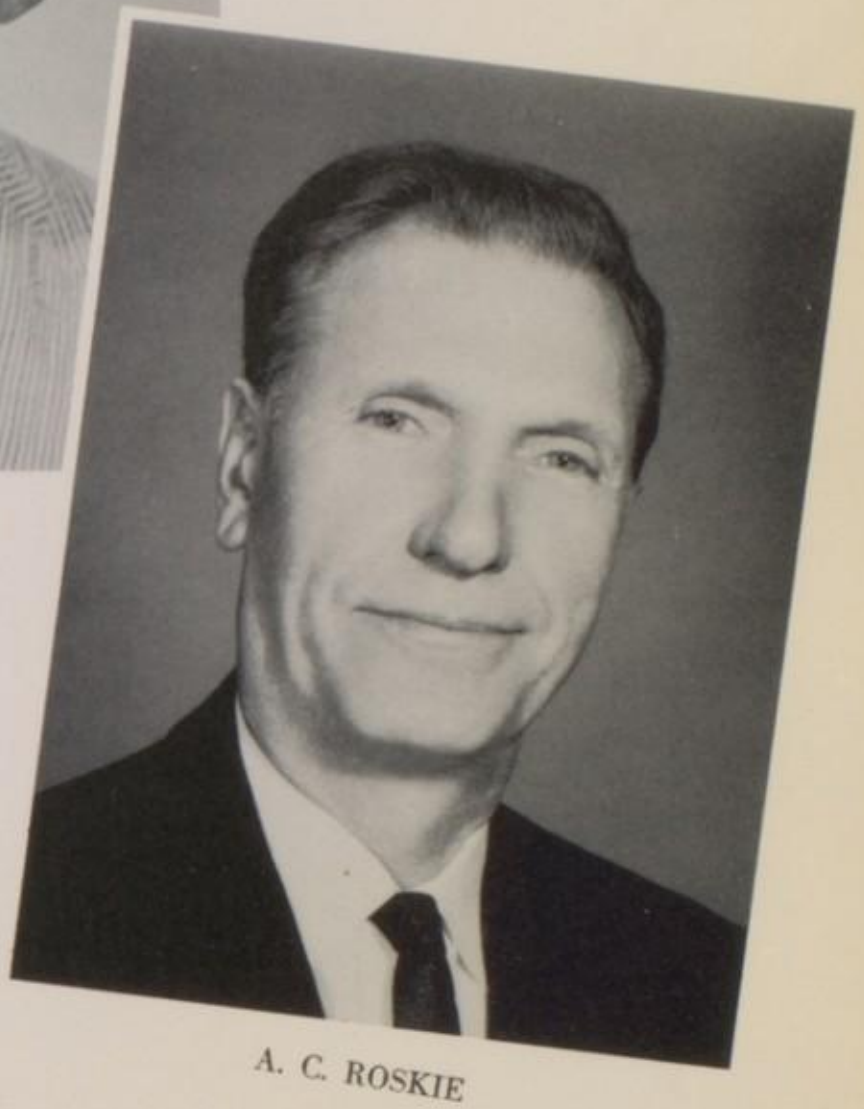
Physical education plays an integral part in the High School years. It teaches students sportsmanship and organization, as well as basic skills which develope the body.

The girls' physical education program, under the direction of Nina "Teach" Witherill and Patricia Adams, emphasizes rule knowledge, important strategy, and good sportsmanship. The results are better games and more fun. There are few accidents because everyone knows the safety rules of the sport. Responsible class leaders are chosen at the beginning of the school year to assist the two teachers.



G. C. KURTZ, JR.

T. F. MANUEL



A. C. ROSKIE

The boys' gym classes are 'rather independent.' Games are played for enjoyment and often with "altered" rules. Strategy and enthusiasm are stressed.

The boys appreciate the excellent facilities offered by the new locker room. The new gymnasium provides ample space for two games to continue simultaneously.

The swimming pool completes the well equipped WCHS physical education department. Although students sometimes grumble about having as much swimming as they do each year, once they "get their feet wet" they are appreciative of the privilege of attending a school with a pool.

DALE FOLSOM—B.M.Ed., M.M.Ed., Milwaukee State University; Michigan State University; Minneapolis College of Music. Instrumental and Vocal Music.

DORIS WALKINGTON—Ph.B., University of Chicago; Chicago Art Institute; Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. Art I, II, and III

Fine Arts

Music and art, the components of the Fine Arts Department, offer many opportunities to those who take advantage of them. The purpose of the department is not necessarily to develop great artists or musicians, but rather to encourage appreciation of quality. Art students become acquainted with line, form, color, texture and design.

By participating in vocal or instrumental music, a student develops his individual ability and interest as well as a discriminating taste.

Autographs

Activities

Student Council

Besides performing its unusual functions, such as supervising elections, conducting training classes for organization officers, and participating in district and state activities, the Student Council has broadened its objectives in many new fields this year. For the first time, the council had charge of the school supply store. Experimental work in establishing honor study halls was initiated by the council.

It also backed the organization of a National Honor Society at WCHS—a very worthwhile project. We are anxiously awaiting the arrival of our first foreign exchange student, sponsored by the entire student body through action by the council. Through its expanding influence, the Student Council is becoming a vital organization at WCHS.

Band

Under the direction of Mr. Dale Folsom, the WCHS band performs a wide variety of pieces, ranging from the annual mid-winter concert's presentation of works of Beethoven, Schubert, or the most contemporary composers to the traditional marches played in formation at football or basketball games or in the many parades in which the band participates. Each spring the band competes in the state music contest, and individual members enter the solo and ensemble contests on both the district and state level; in recent years, WCHS has won many top honors in these competitions.

Each year, through the efforts of the Band Mothers, a number of sophomore and junior band members are awarded scholarships to the music clinic at the University of Wisconsin. The band's new uniforms are maintained and replaced by the Band Mothers, also.

The new bandroom has been greatly appreciated by the band because it provides additional space, better acoustics, and individual practice rooms.

Frosh Girls' Choir

The Freshman Girls' Choir, under the direction of Mr. Dale Folsom, gives interested frosh girls the opportunity to participate in a well-organized choral group. The choir presents enjoyable music at both the Christmas Concert and the annual Spring Concert. The girls attend the McHenry County Music Festival in the fall and participate in music contest each spring.

A Cappella Choir

The a cappella choir, which was able to meet for one full period daily this year, is composed of sixty members who possess above average singing voices. Because choir members are exposed to a wide variety of advanced music, participation in this choral group develops not only singing skill but a broader appreciation of music as well. The choir, directed by Mr. Dale Folsom, presents an annual Christmas concert and participates in the McHenry County Music Festival. In the spring, the choir sings at state music contest, with several members also participating in solo and ensemble competitions. The final choral events of the year are the presentation of the Spring Concert and the musical portion of the Baccalaureate service.

Le-Pro-Con

The Le-Pro-Con is a bimonthly publication of the journalism class. Interested students gain first-hand knowledge of the problems that must be faced when publishing a newspaper. The Le-Pro-Con contains club news, surveys, current school news, and special columns as well as complete coverage of WCHS athletic activities.

The editorial staffs are selected for each semester by the advisor, Mr. William Dean. Sue Benton headed the first semester staff, and Melody Bentsen was editor-in-chief during the second semester.

Thespian Society Troupe 991

The theatrical masks of tragedy and mirth are symbols of the National Thespian Society, Troupe 991. This organization, sponsored by Mr. John Deethardt, draws its members from students who love anything connected with the theater—the hard work backstage as well as the applauded performance.

Each year the Thespians participate in speech contests, attend plays, and actively participate in local dramatic endeavors. A smiling mask predominated over the production of the all-school play, The Wizard of Oz, in spring, 1960. It was the first musical produced at WCHS and a shining success.

In August, 1960, a group of young Woodstockians directed by Mrs. John Stewart, independent of Thespian auspices but including many Thespians, presented the comedy, You Can't Take It With You, in the local Opera House. The enthusiasm of the group was instrumental in reawakening interest in the historic building. Prior to the production, the cast and crew spent many hours cleaning the stage and putting the house into condition for an audience. Because of the community interest which the effort inspired, the City Council has appropriated funds for fireproofing the Opera House.

The Wizard of Oz

For the first time at WCHS, the annual all-school play was a musical production. The drama and music departments joined forces to present L. Frank Baum's The Wizard of Oz—the story of the journey of a young Kansas girl, Dorothy Gale, through the mythical Land of Oz. Dorothy and her whimsical companions, the witless scarecrow, the tin woodman, and the cowardly lion and their encounters along the Yellow Brick Road provided three performances filled with lighthearted entertainment. The gay songs and colorfully costumed chorus contributed much to the general success of the memorable production.

Finian's Rainbow

The only major dramatic production at WCHS this year was the all-school musical, Finian's Rainbow, written by Fred Saidy, E. Y. Harburg, and Burton Lane. The selection of an adult musical comedy and the decision to use a full orchestra, composed of local musicians and directed by Mr. Folsom, made the production of the play an ambitious proposition. The plot of the play involves a pixilated Irish gentleman and his scheme to make a fortune in America for himself and his attractive daughter; in effecting his plan, he encounters a charming, but backward, group of sharecroppers, an Irish leprechaun who is gradually becoming mortal, a prejudiced southern senator, and two angels of prosperity, Mr. Shears and Mr. Robust. Hard work on the part of a large cast and crew, the orchestra, and especially Mr. Deethardt and Mr. Folsom, made Finian's Rainbow a successful sequel to The Wizard of Oz.

Bi-Phy-Chem Club

The Bi-Phy-Chem Club is now in its third year of organization at WCHS. Mr. Mack serves in an advisory capacity. Included among varied activities during the 1960-61 school year were: a field trip to the Pure Oil Company and the Morton Chemical Company; a field trip to the Adler Planetarium and the Museum of Science and Industry; a Science Club sponsored record dance; and the exhibition of competitive science project displays in a local science fair at the annual activity night at WCHS. Bi-Phy-Chem Club business meetings were supplemented during the year by films and speakers.

F. T. A.

The WCHS chapter of the Future Teachers of America was newly chartered this year. The membership is composed of students who are interested in exploring the possibilities of teaching as a career.

The club members served as guides at the annual WCHS College Night and at the McHenry County Teachers Institute. American Education Week was observed by presenting each faculty member with a traditional "apple for the teacher." During the last semester, the FTA offered a tutoring service to the student body.

It is hoped that as the club grows, it will become of increasing value to the students who desire to weigh the advantages of a career in education.

Future Homemakers of America

The Future Homemakers of America is composed of girls who have had previous classes in homemaking. The organization meets regularly for business meetings and extra work each month. Some of the activities included are: taking baskets of fruit to the Old People's Homes, making favors for the hospital, Christmas caroling, an annual FFA-FHA Christmas party, bake sales, and baby-sitting for mothers on election day. The year is concluded with the spring banquet at which the newly elected officers are recognized.

Future Farmers of America

The motto of the FFA-Learning to Do, Doing to Learn, Earning to Live, Living to Serve—summarizes the chapter's goals. Through cooperation with each other, the individual members strive to improve agriculture for the future benefit of society.

Members participate in leadership activities, farming enterprises, and community activities and learn important skills through classrooms and shop work.

Studies pertain to farm mechanics, farm management, animal husbandry, and soil and crop management.

Streakettes

The Streakettes, a branch of the Pep Club, have been organized for five years. They entertain the football and basketball fans by performing their popular rhythmical routines between halves of the Varsity games.

The girls devised their own choreography this year under the supervision and direction of Miss Patricia Adams. Each girl was responsible for sewing her own blue and white costume.

Pep Club

The Pep Club is one of the largest organizations at WCHS. The club actively supports the football and basketball teams and promotes good sportsmanship among the fans.

The Streakettes and the cheerleaders are two active groups that are branches of the Pep Club.

Crowded bleachers show that school spirit is high at WCHS home games.

Varsity Club

In addition to the customary sponsorship of the Homecoming Dance, many other activities kept the Varsity Club busy this year. A notable accomplishment was the purchase of a movie camera and film to be used for photographing varsity football and basketball games.

At a Varsity Club-sponsored record dance, the boys staged an entertaining exhibition basketball game between the "Dallas Cowgirls" and the "Harlem Slobtrotters."

In March, the club arranged a basketball game between the faculty and the senior Varsity Club members. Although the faculty gave the boys some tough competition, the seniors won.

To conclude the year, the club held a steak fry at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

The "Slob Trotters" and "Cowgirls" display their talent.

Cheerleaders

Enthusiastic even when the situation looks hopeless, the small group of agile young ladies comprising the Varsity and Frosh-Soph cheerleading squads provides inspiration for WCHS athletes during football and basketball games. Throughout the year, the girls work diligently to promote school spirit. Faculty advisor to the cheerleaders was Miss Patricia Adams.

The G.A.A.

The Girls' Athletic Association is a firmly rooted organization at WCHS. The club offers a wide variety of sports that fill every sports season.

Members elect officers which constitute the G.A.A. Board. The Board plans meetings and activities with the advice of Miss Witherell and Miss Adams. The Board selects managers for each of the various sports which this year included archery, bowling, ping-pong, basketball, swimming, volleyball, tumbling, hiking, softball, and tennis.

Woodstock's Blue Streaks, defending North Suburban Conference football champions, had a long disappointing season in their bid for two straight crowns. They won only one contest, a non-conference opener at Ela-Vernon.

After losing the first three confrence games, the Streaks began to move, but were unable to put on sustained scoring drives and went down to the wire always in contention, but never on top.

Guard Dave DeWolf, fullback Lynn Stewart were picked on the all-conference first team while Rick Houda earned Honorable Mention.

Stewart's teammates picked him the most valuable player.

WOODS

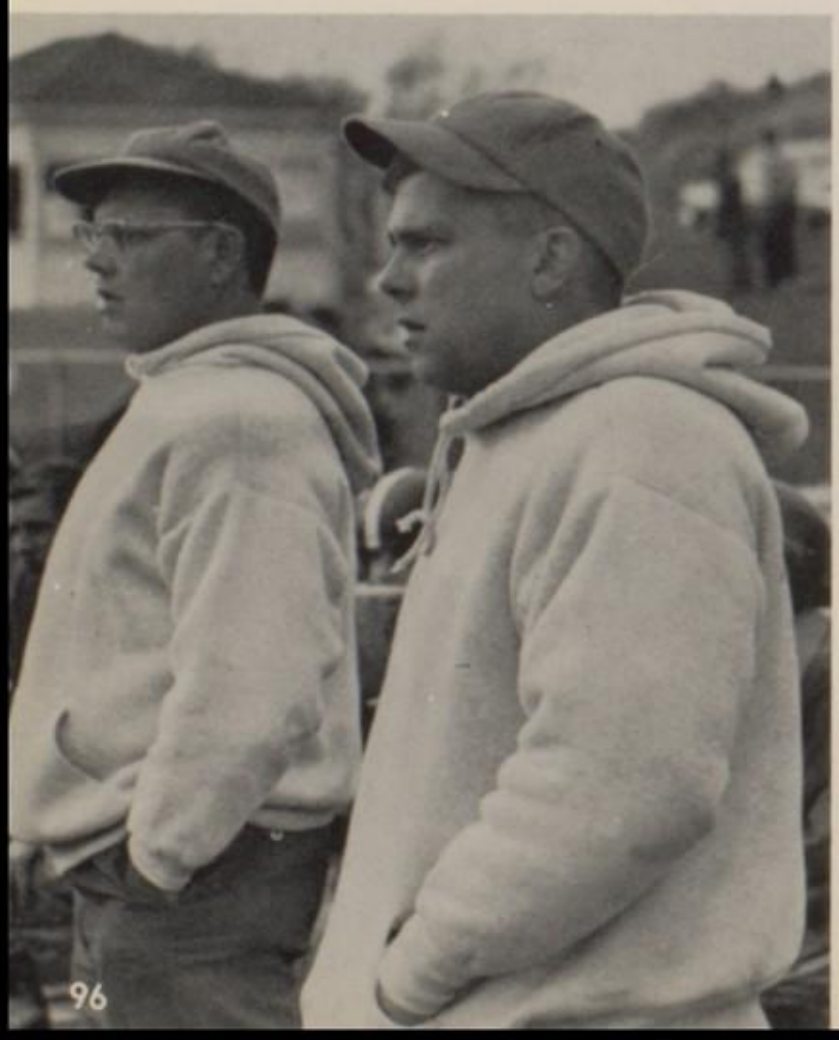
The sophomore football team won one of their eight games this year. Although the games could have gone either way many times, the opposition always seemed to find the right combination first. With another year of experience, these boys should make an impression in the North Suburban. Jack Manual and assistant Stuart Keller made their debut as coaches at WCHS with this team.



Freshman Football

The freshman football team enjoyed a successful season wherein they compiled a six win and one tie record to capture the North Suburban frosh championship. Forty-two freshmen reported on opening day early in September and when the season closed on November 3, the same forty-two boys were on hand.

Offensively in the backfield the team was fortunate in having two fine quarterbacks, a number of fast halfbacks, good blocking backs, and fullbacks who could move fast to the outside as well as power the middle of the line. The line was big but exceptionally agile and boasted good centers and guards, strong tackles and capable receiving ends.

Defensively, the team left little to be desired. In the first six games a total of only seven points was scored against the aggressive, alert, and hard hitting WCHS defense. With another year's experience behind them, the boys should be top varsity competitors in the North Suburban.

Coach O'Hara's linksmen made their regular home rounds against conference competition at Woodstock Country Club. Never able to put enough men at the low scores, the Streak golfers were stopped early in the North Suburban Conference meet and the district meet at the end of the year.

Varsity Track

The varsity track team had a rough season: however, there were individuals who made fine showings in their events. Rusty Koch, hurdles; Tom Louton, 440 and relay man; Tome Parker and Roger Smith, sprinters; and Lynn Stewart, weights: all turned in outstanding performances. School records were broken when Steward threw the shot 50 feet. 10½ inches and when Rusty Koch ran the high hurdles in 15.7 seconds to break the record set by Bill Peterson in 1959.

Sophomore Track

The sophomores' track season suffered this year because several of the boys were competing on the varsity squad. The team placed third in the McHenry County sophomore track meet. Bob Brasile won the pole vault. Tom Parker won the 220-yard dash, placed second in the 100-yard dash, and also placed third in the discus throw. Other boys who placed in the meet were Terry Negel in the half-mile and mile and Russ Peterson in the shot put.

Varsity Basketball

The Blue Streaks suffered another disappointing season this year with a record of four wins and eighteen losses. The team played hard and never lost their determination to win, even when they were outclassed by their opposition.

Roger Eckert was the individual scoring leader for the Streaks with a total of 365 points. Ron Wilbradt was second with a total of 263 points.

The Streaks were hurt before the season even started when Dick Mitchell was injured and was unable to play until the season was half over.

Next year the Streaks will have several junior lettermen returning. Among them are Roger Eckert, Bob Brasile, Lane Newman, and John Widmayer.

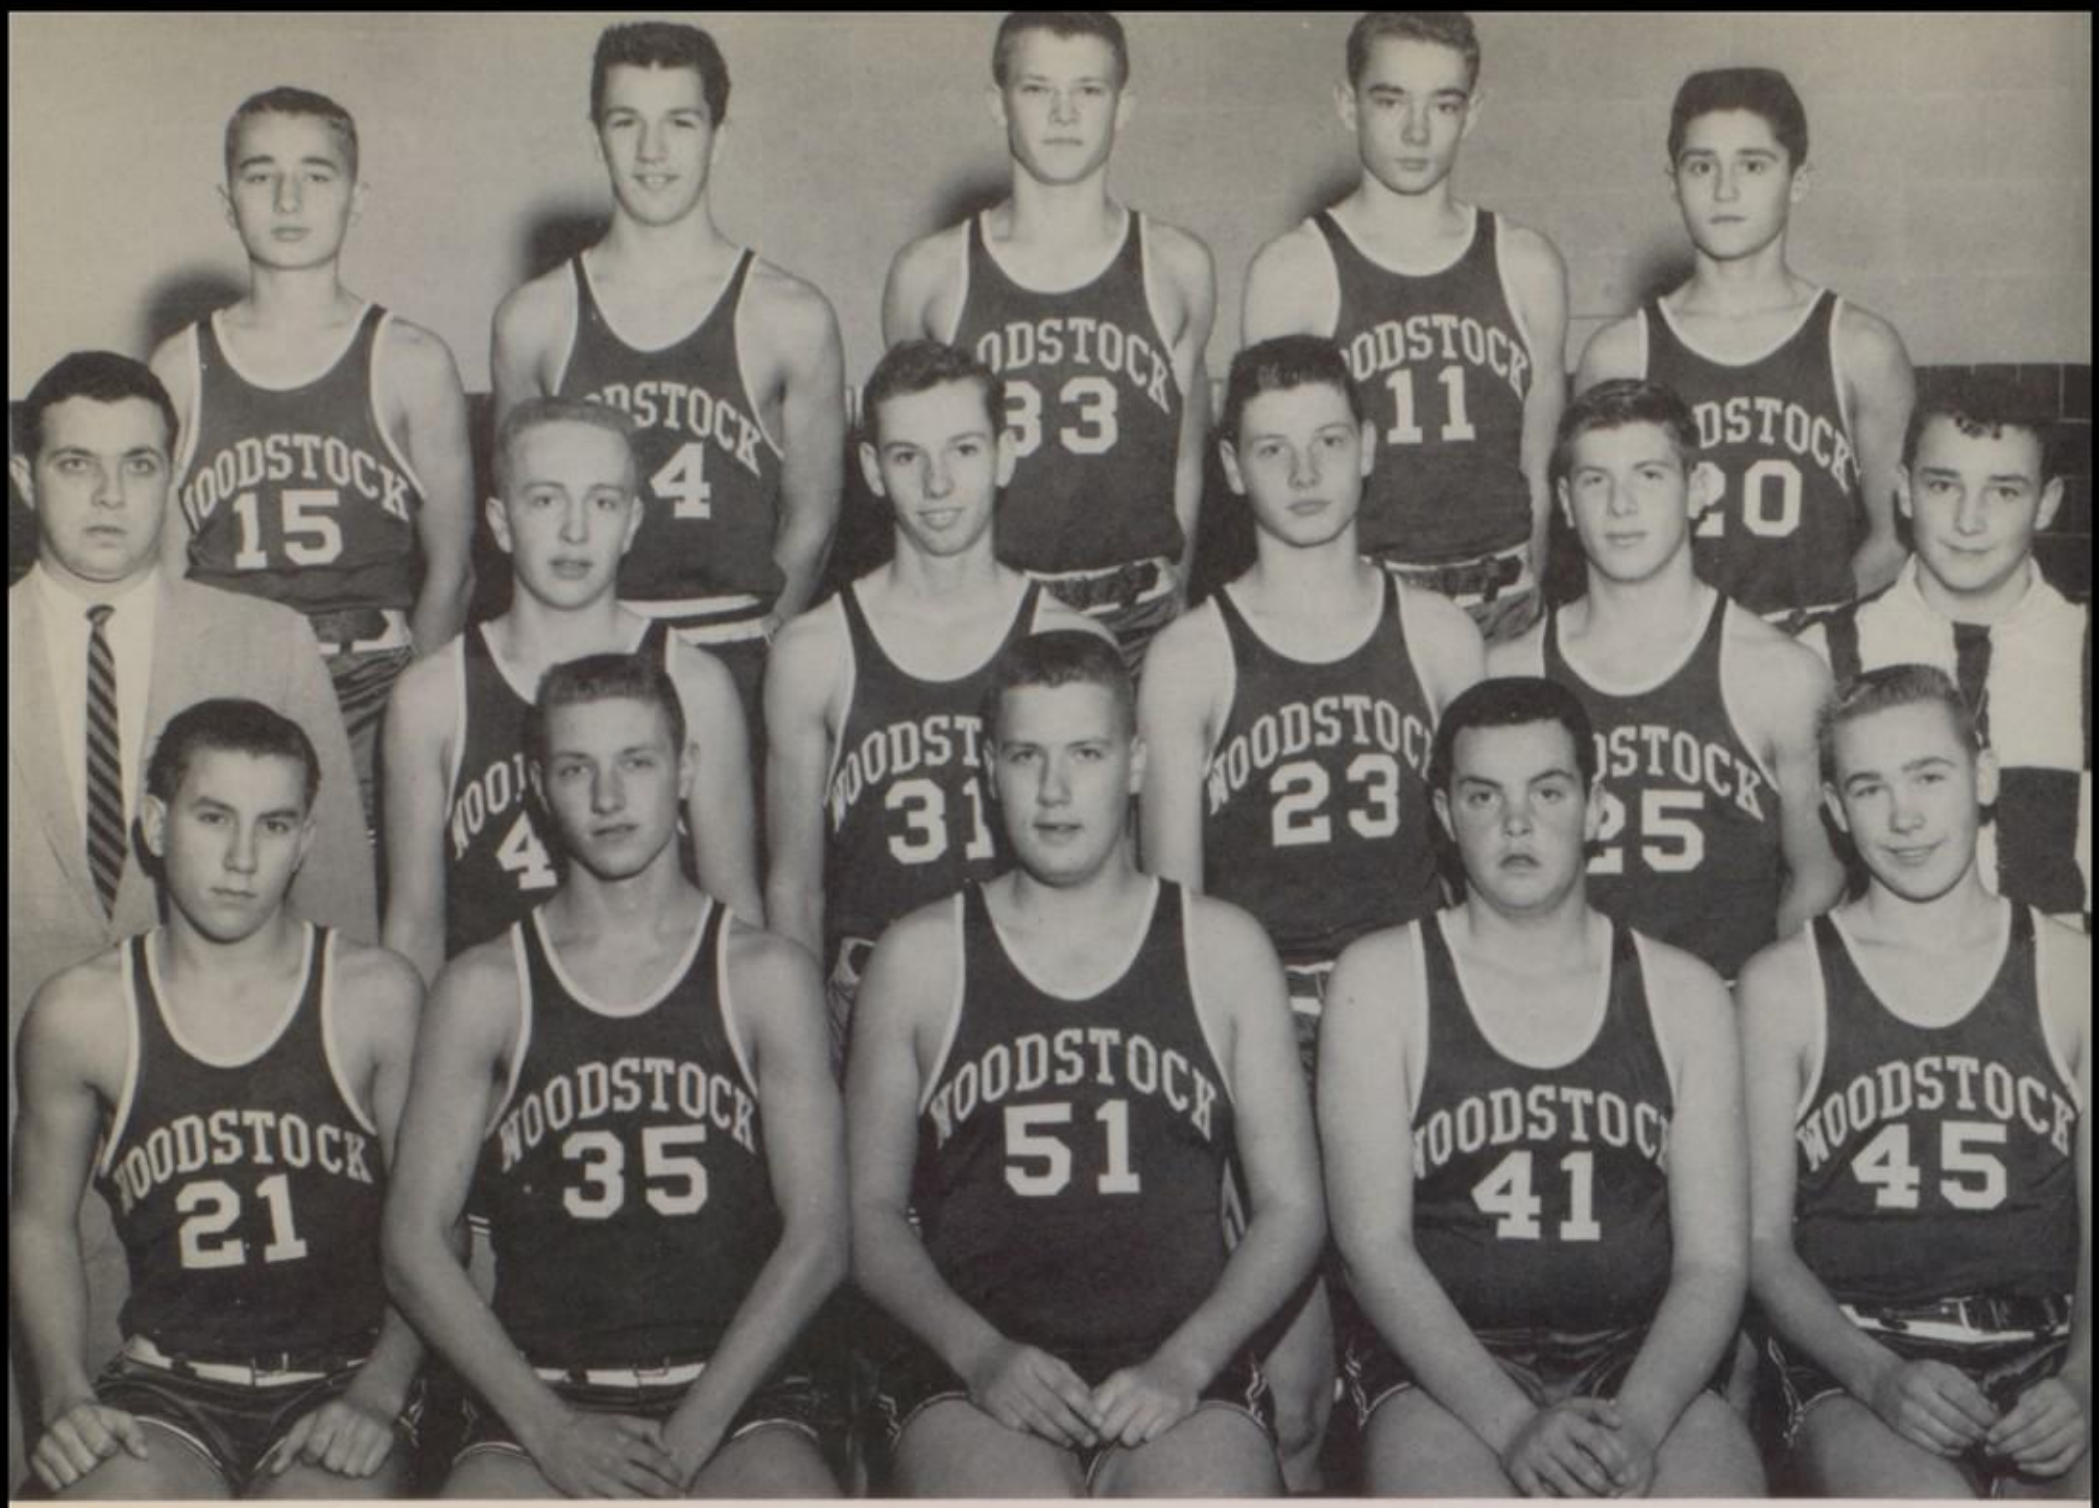
Sophomore Basketball

The WCHS sophomores improved considerably since their freshman experience in basketball. They won four games during the season, two of them from conference foes, and two from Shark League competitors.

Among six boys playing regularly, Dave Case led the scoring, with Gary Peterson and Bob Okeson setting up the plays. Jack Haldemen, Ted Krueger, and Bob Reese completed the first six. They should develop into a good all-around basketball team in a year or two.



Freshman Basketball

The Frosh continued their winning tradition from football on into basketball season. The Frosh compiled an amazing 15 wins and 1 loss record to make Coach Bill Davis the winningest basketball coach at WCHS in a good many years.

The young Streaks were very fortunate in having a good starting five and a strong bench to supply the reserve power when needed.

In the next few years, you should be hearing big things about this freshman squad.

Swimming

The Woodstock swimming team had a losing season, but still gained much experience and displayed keen desire to win.

The team had seven meets with such schools as St. Charles, Elgin, Lake Forest, and Notre Dame of Niles. Woodstock defeated St. Charles twice by good margin.

Coach Roskie feels that with the help of several returning lettermen and a few sophomores, next year's team will offer opponents stiff competition.

Varsity Baseball

The 1960 Varsity Baseball team had a few bad breaks, but still managed to look good occasionally. Lynn Brown did all of the work behind the plate while Bob Sorenson and Russ Stratton did most of the pitching.

The returning lettermen for the 1961 season will be Russ Stratton, Jim Hicks, Ken Loertscher, and Roger Eckert.

Social Activities

Junior Prom

Lighted skyscrapers under a blue, star-studded sky greetd the prom-goers of 1960 as they walked onto the Manhattan Tower terrace through the doorway provided in the mock brick walls. Dreamy music, played by George Fanelli's Orchestra, added to the enchantment of the evening.

At 10:30 p.m. Russell Stratton, junior class president, crowned Carol Peterson, one of six lovely candidates, queen of the prom. The queen's dance and the grand march concluded the ceremony.

Expectant and excited for a big evening, students wait for tickets.

The Grand March usually displays the pretty formals, as well as bewildered expressions.

The biggest evening of the year for romance and getting acquainted. Ed Anderson, Rick Houda, Kathy Kohl, and Melody Church seem to be happy.

Mother's Tribute

May Tribute

At the 1960 May Tribute, Miss Karen Perkins was crowned May Queen by retiring Queen Joann Howard. Miss Carol Zapel, president of Girls' League, was the mistress of ceremonies at the annual festival honoring senior girls and mothers of WCHS students.

The Tribute to Mothers was given by Miss Sharon Schmitt, and the response was given by her mother, Mrs. Schmitt.

Another highlight was the installation of new Girls' League officers and class representatives to the League.

The program closed with the recessional of the Queen and her court of honor.

As editor-in-chief, one is besieged with trials and triumphs throughout the year. The wonderful feeling of togetherness comes and goes.

I wish to thank Beye Fyfe, assistant editor, for his advice, encouragement and help. Mr. Dean's photography and suggestions were greatly appreciated. This book would have been impossible without the help of Barb Berndt, literary editor; Dan Moricoli, art editor; and Nancy Schmarje, business manager. The sincere efforts of the entire staff were numerous and also much appreciated.

The experience for all was one that, I am sure, shall not be soon forgotten.

Sincerely,

Anita Unzner
